C. J. Thompson returned from a business trip to Calgary on Sunday.

Rev. K. Kingston's subject for Sunday night next will be, "The Crack of Doom."

W. Graham, of Brandon, Man., was registered at the Rocky Mountain Sanatorium on Monday.

B. Bourke went to Pincher Creek on Saturday on a business trip. He returned to Frank on Monday.

We are pleased to be able to report that W. Simpson is improving from a severe attack of sciatica.

The headquarters of the R. N. W. M. P. will be transferred from Frank to Bellevue. Corporal Bowers will be in charge.

Quite a number of our citizens attended the entertainment given by the W. C. T. U. in Central Baptist church, at Blairmore on Monday last.

Ice cream and refreshments will be served on the veranda or the inside of the Rocky Mountain Sanatorium every Wednesday and Sunday all day.

Jack McLeod and M. Rhynas, proprietors of a large horse ranch on the South Fork, were in town last week looking over the local horse market.

F. R. Colomer, managing director of the Canadian Coal Consolidated, left on the "Flyer" on Tuesday morning en route to his home at Paris, France.

Rev. T. M. Murray conducted the service in Knox Methodist church on Sunday evening last. While R. K. Kingston took charge of Mr. Murray's work at Coleman.

Your tongue is coated.
Your breath is foul.
Headaches come and go.
These symptoms show that your stomach is the trouble. To remove the cause is the first thing, and Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets will do that. Easy to take and most effective. Sold by dealers everywhere.

LILLE NOTES

Mr. John Pickering has left for Calgary where he has secured a position as attendant at the asylum there.

Edward Keith, late engineer at No. 1 shaft, has gone to Pincher Creek, equipped with an up-to-date ploughing outfit and has the good wishes of everyone for his success.

Constable Moorhead has returned to Lille after his short vacation bringing with him a bachelor who we are pleased to learn, is so enamored with Lille and its surroundings that he will not remain a bachelor long. An interesting event is looked forward to.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets assist nature in driving all impurities out of the system, insuring a free and regular condition and restoring the organs of the body to health and strength. Sold by dealers everywhere.

If the strike continues, Lille will be practically deserted as every train leaving carries the full complement of passengers, with bag and baggage en route to pastures new, the majority apparently making to the coast and Vancouver Island while not a few are returning to their old homes in the old country.

Diarrhoea should be cured without loss of time by a medicine which like Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy not only cures promptly but produces no unpleasant and safe to take. Sold by dealers everywhere.

Addresses Delivered at Opening

The addresses which were given by Mr. F. R. Colomer, managing director, and Mr. A. A. Muller, general manager of the Canadian Coal Consolidated, at the official opening of the Rocky Mountain Sanatorium and which were crowded out of last week's issue, appear below. When introducing the chairman, Mr. Muller said:

Chairman, ladies and gentlemen: On an occasion such as this, which is designed to commemorate the inauguration of an institution which we are dedicating to the service of mankind, it is fitting that expression should be given to such sentiments as may be aroused by an event of this character. As is customary these expressions will take the form of toasts.

We are fortunate in having with us to-night one of the heads of the Company whose enterprise has afforded occasion for this gathering. Mr. Felix R. Colomer, managing director, will preside this evening as chairman. Owing, however, to the fact that Mr. Colomer feels somewhat diffident about attempting to make himself understood in English it becomes necessary that I act as Vice-Chairman.

Mr. Colomer, on being introduced to the gathering, rose and said: Ladies and gentlemen—It is indeed, a great honor for me, to preside to-day, at the opening of the Rocky Mountain Sanatorium. It is through a mere chance that my visit to Frank coincides with this important ceremony. I am sorry that some one higher in authority than myself is not here to fill the position. The honor belongs to our worthy President, Mr. Maurice Tiltor, but in his absence I shall endeavor to fill the position to the best of my ability.

Since several years a tenant has been conducting for us a small sanatorium. That sanatorium has effected marvelous cures. The number of patients was daily increasing and the building was becoming inadequate for the number of patients to be treated. It was also wanting in modern conveniences. In the interest of public health we decided to build a new sanatorium fully equipped with all modern improvements, where cures will be more numerous and more complete. I hope, where the sick, will be well accommodated, well provided for, thanks to the care of Mr. Gomen, recently manager of large hotels in France, whose services we have been very fortunate in obtaining and whom I present to you to-day. Sanatorium, in a word, is where the best medical attendance will be given by our worthy doctors, Dr. Malcolmson, Dr. McKay, Dr. McKenzie and Dr. de Martigny.

But in order that the success of this establishment may be complete and assured it is important to have easy and quick means of access from the neighborhood at all seasons of the year. The government of Alberta, I am informed, is at the present time contemplating the expenditure of large sums of money to be applied towards the better improvement of the highways of the Province. In this policy they are to be commended. We shall rejoice therefore to see their plans speedily carried into effect.

It is a matter that concerns the public health. It also concerns the prosperity of the town of Frank and district, which would be developed still more rapidly than it has been during the last few years.

I regret that there is not sitting around this table the several general managers of mining concerns in the District. I know that they would have been here except for a meeting of the operators at Calgary. But we have occasion to be often together, representatives of mining interests. The mine operators in Germany have produced wonderful results. In Austria, the Association of Mine Owners is able to accomplish expensive undertakings which would be impossible for one user alone to perform; in this way they have dug immense subterranean drains for the drainage of water from their properties. One of the many advantages that would accrue from having the mines of the Crow's Nest

Happenings in and Around Bellevue

The migration out of the town continues apace.

Mr. George Christie has gone to Calgary seeking work.

Miss A. Budge and Miss L. Allsopp have secured positions in Lethbridge and taken them up.

F. C. last week was busy seeking a spot where he could place 5 cents to the best advantage. Perhaps the little coin will soon be a relic of the past. Stick to it F. C.

The strike begins with many of the families in a weakened condition, financially, through the idleness of the mine since Dec. 9th last. Perhaps Bellevue will be the town to suffer most from a long struggle. Yet the men are determined to stand by the Union to the uttermost.

On Monday three young men went to Calgary looking for work. These are young men who arrived from Yorkshire since the explosion and have only put in a few days work in the district. They have had a poor introduction to the proverbial Canadian prosperity, but we wish them good luck in the new venture.

Pass associated into one vast syndicate would be the consideration of the establishment of a central power plant, thereby reducing very materially the cost as compared with present conditions where each small industry operates a separate power plant.

I wish to thank the business men of Frank, who have always been devoted to us since the day when we took over, under peculiar and difficult circumstances, the interests of the Canadian-American Coal & Coke Company. Thanks to their confidence and their support, we have been able to overcome all difficulties and our mine enters to-day on the way to prosperity under the skilful direction of our general manager, Mr. Muller.

Ladies and Gentlemen: It is not without a certain emotion that I conclude, for never before has it been granted me to preside over such a large gathering nor to feel myself surrounded by as much good feelings. I thank you with all my heart all who assist in such large numbers to this celebration and to those in particular who have come long distances to attend it.

I drink your health, to the health of your families and to the prosperity of the Rocky Mountain Sanatorium and of the town of Frank.

Mr. Muller then followed with the following speech:

Mr. chairman, ladies and gentlemen: With pleasure and delight we look upon the present prosperity of Canada.

Our newspapers are filled with the wide-spread interest taken in the proposed concurrent legislation by the Governments of the United States and Canada leading to reciprocity in their trade relations.

In the Past District here, we have the coking coal and as our markets are naturally to the south of us, we are glad of the efforts of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his government toward the opening up of more advantageous markets than we have had heretofore.

Our newspapers also report that our Alberta Premier, the Hon. Mr. Sifton is making a strong stand for the provincial ownership and disposal of our minerals and lands, the revenues of which now go to the federal government at Ottawa. Why should we not have the revenues that seemingly ought to go for the building of roadways and the development of our mineral resources. Let us, ladies and gentlemen, thank our Alberta Premier for every success in this line of his efforts and our federal Premier, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, that some day in the near future he may give us first exportation of coal to the United States.

Agreed to Arbitration

Now that the big strike is on at the coal mines throughout this district and as much has already been said by outsiders as well as many miners in favor of arbitration and as the operators have been wrongly accused and severely criticized as not submitting to arbitration, we deem it most wisely to lay before our readers the facts, and with that object in view we print the following resolution which was moved by Mr. Stockett, president of the Western Coal Operators Association, and seconded by Mr. Brown, (a member of the said association) on Thursday, March 23rd at the conference of the Western Coal Operators Association and representatives of District 18, of United Mine Workers of America, held at Calgary.

"Resolved: That whereas we have already spent upwards of a fortnight negotiating and have as yet arrived at no definite conclusion, and in view of the fact that the present agreements expire on the 31st of the present month, it is resolved that in order to prevent the possibility of a suspension of work on that date the following procedure shall govern each party to the negotiations which may take place between now and that date."

"1. That we proceed with the discussion of the agreements and with such clauses with any amendments or rates as we may agree upon to be embodied in and become part of the new agreement."

"2. Such clauses or rates as we may not be able to agree on to be set to one side and on the completion of our negotiations to be submitted to a board of arbitration for final adjustment."

"3. The finding of such board to be binding and final and to be accepted by both parties."

"4. Said board to consist of two members appointed by the Western Coal Operators Association and two members to be appointed by District 18 of the U. M. W. of A. and presided over by the chief justice of the province of Alberta or any justice of the supreme court of Alberta appointed by him."

"Meantime should an award not be arrived at by the board of arbitration by the 31st inst, the miners will continue to work and the operators to operate their mines under the present agreements, and any award made shall apply as from the first of April, 1911."

Needless to say the above resolution was not carried, the Miners' Union representatives turned it down flat.

The Coleman Miner is responsible for the following which appeared in its last issue:

"A suspicion is abroad that the operators have not been unwilling to meet a strike, and this is strengthened by their attitude at the close of the recent conference. If that be so they will meet with scant sympathy from the public. On the other hand if that be so, the workmen can prove it to the public satisfaction by demanding arbitration. The party that demands arbitration in this fight will deserve to win."

Unions

The old proverb, "In Union there is strength" - the "Union fait la Force" of the Belgians, - is as applicable to person as to communities. What individuals fail to do singly, is readily effected by an aggregation of individuals in a corporate form. Thus trades-unions are organized to protect the interest of the workman.

The trades-unions, the labor societies, and kindred organizations of workmen, are the efforts to use association as a means to gain their ends, to preserve their rights and better their condition. Often when one union fails in its purpose, it is soon supported by other such organizations. The combined forces are, of course, stronger than one single local union, and consequently they are placed in a better position to accomplish their aims.

The records show that a large proportion of the strikes of the workmen and laborers in the country utterly fail to achieve their object. What is worse, however, is the loss to both parties. Outside of the equity involved, the naked fact remains that far the greater number of strikes are dismal failures, and when we consider the loss of earnings to the men and their families and the consequent misery, the whole thing is lamentable.

The suffering of the strikers begins as soon as their own reserved fund and the contributions of their fellows are exhausted. Before the pangs of hunger, especially of those dependent on the bread-winners, enthusiasm dies out, courage is dampened, and the combination of laborers gradually melts away.

Editorial Notes

Who said: "Incorporation."

Well conducted trades-unions are about the best friends that the workmen can have.

A wagon road from here to the South Fork would be a great boon to this town.

The Lethbridge Daily Herald asks have we been stung. We know of one or two miscreants in this vicinity who are occasionally slandering some persons who would challenge those vile wretches to prove a flaw in their character. Pope says: "Slander stings the brave."

Dollars against doughnuts that the real business of the miners' union would be conducted more amicably and that unity would be more prevalent between its members and the general public if the unions throughout this district were not dominated by Socialism. We believe that Socialism will yet lose its sway in the Crows Nest Pass. There may be no millennium even then, but a decidedly better state of affairs.

a fire-trap city, and this reputation has been deserved, for the city's loss by fire has far exceeded annually the usual losses sustained by cities of a similar size in the United States and Europe. With the rebuilding that is going on an effort is being made to remedy this state of affairs.

Stories which have been circulated at different times of terrible diseases caught from the wearing of false hair are being brought pretty close to home at the present moment. Dr. J. E. Laberge, of the Provincial Board of Health, is about to issue a statement to the effect that there is danger that the plague which is causing such frightful suffering and death in China may be brought into Canada by false hair. The officers of the health department are making inquiries at the local hair stores in order to discover what proportion of the switches sold by local dealers come from China.

The men who conduct the hair business state that they import the bulk of their goods from Germany, but they add that Chinese hair is also on sale here. It is claimed that most of the corpses taken to the morgues in the plague-stricken districts of China are minus pig-tails, and the reason is that the hair has been taken by agents of the hair companies.

It took Montreal a long time to wake up and cast a sleepy glance over Porcupine. Developments that made the world stare have been going on for a good twelve-month up there. Toronto has gone crazy over it. Montreal, until a few weeks ago, slept on in peace and bliss.

Porcupine, as a camp, is undoubtedly good if one may believe the united word of the scores of engineers, expert and otherwise, who have walked right in and turned around and walked right out again. They all saw enough to satisfy them that pay ore in large quantities was to be had.

A Canadian wide missionary convention will shortly be announced by the Laymen's Missionary Movement. Meetings will be held in almost every town and city from the Atlantic to the Pacific some time next Autumn. The dates have not yet been definitely fixed but the first gathering will likely take place at Vancouver about the middle of October.

Fashion Hints

Dear Mister Editor:

In your last week's paper I noticed a short item which spoke very flatteringly about two ladies who visited your office robed in the new kind of decorations—namely, the harem skirts. Now, Mr. Editor, while I don't really object to what the people of the opposite sex put on their frames to help improve their looks; yet I do object to the harem skirt as an article of comfortable apparel.

In the first place, the ladies of this western Canada look good enough to me in their petticoats, blouses and fancy skirts; and as far as I can judge, the only thing necessary as an improvement is to compel the ladies to wear the men's pants. Then, what would happen? In my humble opinion it would merely be the means of adjusting a long-tolerated problem, and it's just as well for men to wear the harem skirts, because the ladies are determined to wear the pants in the way of governing the men.

This world, Mister Editor, is a world of fashion, and although it's the ladies who say so, still it's the men who have to dig down into their pockets who know most about it. Therefore, this is another reason why the men should wear the harem skirts.

The harem skirts, Mister Editor, are like a fat cow—they're neither built for comfort, nor convenience; and until the ideas of men are permitted to dominate over the silly ideas of the women, these gay inventions will continue to come to light and however simple or unique, the trouble of inventing must be met by a singular scoop from the poor man's pocket.

Why is it that books of fashion are not circulated for men from the big mail order houses? It's because the men are believing so much in originality and pride so much in the works of nature, that they do not tolerate or dream of anything outside of themselves. But the ladies are tireless in making improvements upon their frail forms as they think will meet with the approval and fancy of their first admirers.

I say again to later Editor that if the men wear the skirts in the mines, on the scaffold or elsewhere, and had the money pocket in them, the fashion houses would soon become as extinct as the straits settlements coils which not long since were circulated freely by a citizen of Blairmore.

Thanking you for space in your valuable paper, I remain, Mister Editor

Yours very truly
STUNG.

Punishment for Wife Beaters

The man who has the habit of beating his better half will, after this, get a taste of his own medicine if he happens to be hauled before Judge Langelier in the Court of Sessions. For the first time in many years a sentence, with the additional sting of the cat-o-nine-tails added to it, was pronounced by His Lordship the other day. He also was good enough to warn all wife beaters that, if any of them ever appeared before him, they would catch the same punishment. It is a peculiar fact, but none the less true, that almost every man criminally inclined fears the lash more than anything. Governor Vallejo of the Montreal jail is of the opinion that a large percentage of his boarders would be much more Christianly inclined were the cat-o-nine-tails a little more freely applied.

Some Towns Are Being Buried

A town that never has anything to do in a public way, is on the way to the cemetery. Any citizen who will do nothing for his town is helping to dig the grave. A man that curses his own town furnishes the coffin. The man who is so selfish as to have no time from his business to give to city affairs is making the shroud. The man who will not advertise is driving the hearse. The man who is always pulling back from any public enterprise throws bouquets on the grave. He, who is so stingy as to be howling "hard times" preaches the funeral, sings the doxology and thus the town is buried from all sorrow and care.—Wainwright Star.

R. W. Coulthard Writes--Miners Break Agreement

Blairmore, April 1st, 1911
To the Editor

BLAIRMORE ENTERPRISE

DEAR SIR—

In the Calgary Daily Herald of March 31st, I notice that the secretary of District 18 of U. M. W. of A. is credited with the statement that the agreement our company made with the Union in connection with Blairmore mine last November "called for the men to work while there was an agreement with the operators. The expiration of the agreement makes the supplementary agreement void."

The men of the Blairmore Union who attended a meeting here recently, were also informed by one of the district officials that the present agreement our company had at this particular mine expired on April 1st and was, therefore, not effective after that date, and they urged the men to quit work.

In view of the misrepresentations, which have been made to our men and to the press, we feel it incumbent upon us to place the matter in a true light.

The actual memorandum of the agreement, between the Company and District 18 of U. M. W. of A. in regard to Blairmore mine, is as follows:

"Union Guarantees:

"1. Same rates to apply at Blairmore mine when it reopens, and no attempt made to influence the employees of said mine to quit work until such time as an agreement can be arrived at, after the usual routine as set forth in the agreement with the Western Coal Operators' Association."

"Company Guarantees:

"1. To reinstate employees who were working at time mines shut down in preference to new men.
"2. No signed papers to be asked from the men as to conditions Present (Signed) W. B. Powell
For the Union President U. M. W. W. B. Powell of A. Dist. 18
C. Stubbs (Signed)
G. Garner R. W. Coulthard
G. Jones for the Company
For the Company
R. W. Coulthard
J. Menard."

This agreement was signed up on the 28 of November 1910, at which time the Blairmore mine was closed down. It was to come into force when the mine reopened, which was two or three days later.

It must be apparent to anyone that the men at Blairmore mine were to remain at work until "SUCH TIME AS AN AGREEMENT CAN BE ARRIVED AT." Such agreement HAS NOT YET BEEN ARRIVED AT.

In view of the above, therefore, we feel that the Blairmore miners were being misinformed and misled in a manner which is entirely unjustifiable, and we are taking this method of making known the facts.

Yours truly

Major Crofoot Meets a Rival With a Scheme.

PATIENTS FOR ALL DOCTORS.

Earned Afflictions to Be Turned Loose Without Opposers—The Major, Asked to Finance the Project, Turns It Down and Sadly Reflects.

Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.

MAJOR CROFOOT, grand promoter of some of the grandest enterprises on the face of the earth, sat in his office and shivered. It was cold, and there was only a handful of coal. It was the winter (morning) of his discontent. For a week only one person had entered his office, and that was a man who had a scheme to grow legs under a brick and make a sugar beet of it, and he had refused to invest a dollar in any other enterprise.

The major was wondering if he could spare another leg of his desk to keep the fire going when his office door opened with a bang and a brisk little man entered and helped himself to a chair, and, rubbing his hands together, he began:

"Grandest scheme ever originated in the brains of man and will make you a millionaire in a year. The position of vice president is specially what I offer it to you at a salary of $50,000 a year. All you've got to do is to ride around in an auto and smoke fifty cent cigars. Major, can you raise $5,000? Sell your last shirt to get it. Sell your body to the doctors if they need it, but get the dough and come back with me."

"Sir, I don't know you," stilly replied the major.

"Talk references from 432 banks and twenty-eight state governors. I made the books as good for ten millions. Can you raise $3,000?"

"Are you a promoter?"

"Fidelity Johnson, sir, who has promoted sixty-four different schemes and made each and every one a howling success. Began on 30 cents two years ago and am now worth $30,000,000. Monte Cristo and Golconda won't be in it with me two years hence. Major, do you want to roll in gold and walk in diamonds? If so come in with F. J.—named Fidelity by my mother because she always found the cake gone when she got back. Can you raise $1,000—just a little thousand?"

"But I'm a promoter," replied the major.

"Oh, no, you're not. You are not Z in the promoting business. You just think you are. Can you raise $500—$500—$500? If you can the position is yours. Fifty thousand a year, and we shall insist that you smoke at least ten good cigars a day and wear a fur coat in winter. Major, come into the Canned Germ company and walk in wealth."

Major Crofoot Resents.

"I don't like your talk, sir. You seem to take me for a layabout."

"The Canned Germ company is what it's name implies. Your bedroom, this office, the rooms of almost every house in the land, are full of germs of fifty different ailments. They nest. They fly about. They multiply. You breathe them in and have pneumonia, typhoid, etc. The little germs do it, major; be sure does. Rid your rooms of the germ and you rid yourself of disease. No more drugs; no more doctors. Do you begin to see, eh?"

"I promoted the Arctic Circle Strawberry Baking company," said the major as he straightened up.

"More nothing, sir—more nothing. Dr. Cook came back at just the crucial moment and reported that arctic strawberries had a punky taste, and your whole scheme fell down. It wasn't like canned germs, sir. No chance for Dr. Cook to spoil it. He went for the pole, and we go for the pole. No clashing of interests, you see. Major, can you raise $500—$500?"

"I'm a promoter, not an investor!" almost shouted the major.

"What an opportunity—what an opportunity!" exclaimed F. J. as he leaned back, but still rubbing his hands together. "Such a thing comes once in a lifetime. Fifty thousand a year, and you get a pay envelope every fifteen minutes if you want it. Capitalists lift their hats, bankers bow, John D. comes to you for advice. A-b-b-b! I said $10, major, but can you raise the half of that? How about $250?"

"I'm a promoter, not an investor!" almost shouted the major.

I said $10, major, but can you raise the half of that? How about $250?"

"You can't string me, and you needn't waste your breath."

"And I needn't tell you all that canned germs, major. We use vacuum tubes to run up. They're got to come or it pulls their hind legs off. We get 'em by the handful, the pint, the peck, the barrel, O Lord, but we do get 'em. The auction brings 'em right in. No use in getting a toe hold and pulling back. And, when we've got 'em, what then? Ah, that's the whole beautiful scheme. It's where our dividends come from. Major, how many doctors in the United States alone?"

Still Silent.

The major gave him a desperate look, but he replied:

"These doctors must have patients—got to have, got to have. Where get them when no one is ill? Why, from the Canned Germ company. One can of germs let loose in a neighborhood is warranted to bring fifty patients. Fifty patients means $1,000, and there you are. Major, can you raise 50 cents, 25 cents? Can you sell that shirt which you have on and which is probably your only one for 15 cents?"

"That's an insult, sir!" shouted the major as he jumped to his feet.

"If you only could, major—if you only could! Go to wallow in, and yet you can't wallow! Greivous to be achieved, and yet you linger down among the little fellows. Fifty thousand dollars a year, and yet you don't seem to want it! Almost 2,000,000 doctors and more coming. The Canned Germ company will make fortunes for them if they will only follow instructions. You can open a can with your finger nail. No can opener to get out of order at the critical moment. Open the can, shut your lips and away go the germs! Next day the doctor is sent for. Cans are marked from No. 1 to No. 37, according to the germ wanted. Can't be any mistake and mix up the asthma germs with the typhoid germs. Major, have you even got to open a can?"

The major hadn't. He had only nipped it was an outrageous insult to ask him if he had the other, and he was considered it and shouted:

"This is my busy day, sir!"

"But we only figured on the number of doctors in the United States," continued the brisk little man. "Take the world over, and what would you make the number?"

"I won't estimate, sir! I don't care, sir!"

Refuses to Come Down.

"I make them not far from 40,000,000, major. I am always conservative in my estimates. Forty million doctors, and each one buys thirty-seven of our canned germs per year. Think of it, major!"

"I won't do it!"

"The profit on each can is 50 cents. I don't care a rap!"

"And you can see what the gross sum amounts to. We shall have to have hospitals made to hold the money. Major, how long would it take you to count a million dollars?"

"I wouldn't try. Haven't I told you, sir?"

The Canned Germ company. Physicists supplied on the quiet with germs of typhoid, pneumonia, malaria, asthma, tuberculosis, cholera, fever, and thirty other sorts. Every can brought at least 100 patients to the doctor, and the profit to the company is 50 cents. Major Crofoot:

"I say get out of this!" screamed the major as he opened the door and held it open.

"And you haven't got even 10 cents to come in on the ground floor!" almost wailed F. J. as he rubbed his hands some more and to his discomfiture the door was locked behind him Major Crofoot sat down and beat tears that there was one more full of galls than he.

TWO KINDS OF HOME RULE.

And the Second Kind is Not So Popular as the First.

Lord Ilkerton, upon whom fell the honor of moving the address in the House of Lords, is the first of the few politicians who have made a name in physics.

Formerly known as Sir Walter Foster, he was a member of the House of Commons for a quarter of a century. He was in the best of the honor physician to the House, for as good luck would have it, he was generally at hand when any member needed his services.

Lord Ilkerton first became famous as a physician in Birmingham; he has been vice-president of the British Medical Association, and has contributed largely to the literature of medicine and sanitary science.

As president of the National Liberal Association, Lord Ilkerton has had much to do with the reorganization of the party in the years which followed the Liberal defeat in 1905.

He held important appointments under various Liberal Governments, including that of parliamentary secretary to the Local Government Board, and when the division came he was always among the first to pass through the turnstiles of the Liberal lobby. Indeed, as a rule, he was the last to leave the lobby.

Charles Dilke that was the first to get his name ticked off by the clerk in the morning list, and when he was waiting for the door to be opened both used to entertain the younger members with reminiscences of notable parliamentary personalities.

Lord Ilkerton has had a good story concerning another kind of "Home Rule," to that mentioned above. Tired and dusty, a party were returning by train from a holiday trip. Sir John, a little bald man, seated himself down to read, but dropped off to sleep.

On the rack was a ferocious crab in a bucket, and when Sir John was sleeping the crab woke up, and finding things dull in the bucket, started exploring.

By careful navigation, Mr. Crab reached the edge of the rack. Down it fell, alighting on Sir John's shoulder, and it grabbed the man's ear to steady itself. The passengers held their breath and waited for developments, but Sir John only shook his head and said: "Let go, Sarah; I tell you I have been at the office all the evening!"

Sir Richard Webster and Athletics.

Sir Richard Webster, Chief Justice of England, was, in his youth, a famous athlete, and, on many occasions, carried the day for his college in victory. His forte lay in distance running—from a half-mile upwards—and he was noted for his endurance.

He has been an ardent advocate of athletics since he was a boy, and apart from their value as promoters of health, there is nothing that degrades the character of a man as much as a lack of physical fitness, and stick-it-to-itiveness, that are so essential to success in the race of life.

Sir Richard seldom misses an important meeting, or athletic function, and he is a great admirer of the game because of his well-known enthusiasm, and the influence of a word of encouragement on the part of a man in his position is bound to have an effect.

It is indeed noticeable the number of athletes in England, and how many of them were noted athletes in their college days, and go to disprove the contention that the game is a waste of time and militates against the success of a man in after life. The reverse is often the case, and that should be the true object and purpose of them.

Dom Manuel's Scraggy Dog.

Two ladies walking in Richmond Park, London, recently were horrified to have the little black and white terrier that accompanied them suddenly set upon by a fierce and very much in earnest bulldog. The ladies shrieked and the master of the bulldog appeared at once and proceeded to separate the combatants, using a whip freely in pulling his dog away from the smaller animal.

When the terrier had been restored to his owner, the young gentleman raised his hat and apologized humbly for the trouble his dog had caused, and expressed the hope that the little terrier would not suffer from his rough treatment and that the ladies would recover from their alarm.

Whereupon the two ladies discovered that the pallid young man who was so very courteous was none other than the deposed king of Portugal, Dom Manuel, who was taking his customary morning stroll in the park.

Rutus Isaac's Sacrifice.

It is doubtful if any lawyer of our times, not even excepting Sir Edward Carson, has derived a bigger income from the legal profession than Sir Rutus Isaac, the British Attorney-General. Some idea of the value placed upon his services may be gathered from the fact that in a case which was leading court three years ago, which lasted twenty-one days, Sir Rutus received a retainer fee of $15,000 and a retainer of $1,000 a day.

In accepting the office of Attorney-General Sir Rutus made a big sacrifice. A salary of $30,000 is attached to the office, which, together with fees, totals some about $50,000. It is estimated that Sir Rutus' private legal practice was bringing him in over $150,000 a year.

He forthwith replied that he would not do so; but he, too, was in need of money, and he would need the money to pay his bills.

PROFIT IN BREEDING GOOD BLOOD HORSES.

In breeding horses sound parents are necessary for the production of sound offspring. Soundness in one parent should not be trusted to eliminate unsoundness in the other, says the Kansas Farmer. One or both may have been bred from unsound stock, but mere beauty is of little value unless associated with soundness and good wearing qualities. That "like produces like" is the well known law of breeding. The use of unsound stallions and mares in breeding operations, whether for the market or for farm stock, will produce unsound horses to offer on the market for the small, discriminating prices paid for such animals or with equally unsatisfactory result of raising horses that are hardly worth their keep.

An unsound stallion, no matter how handsome in conformation, how well he may be bred or how many prizes he may have won, should be overlooked positively by the owner of a good mare. Transmissible diseases in a stallion will develop in the offspring. The stud requisites in the mare are soundness, bearing and wind. Space, sidebones, ringbones, stringhalt, St. Vitus dance (chorea) and contagious diseases must be religiously guarded against. A creature of unsoundness signed by a qualified and reputable veterinarian would not be more than a reasonable demand from the breeder.

This, however, is but one side of the matter. The mare must also be sound. Among other things, a worn-out, maimed, blind, halt or otherwise unsound mare, no matter how good her blood, should be discarded for breeding purposes, on the basis that "she is good for nothing else." This policy is not only sound, but costly.

MINERS HAVE QUIT WORK

Throughout This District—Agreement Between District 18 and Operators

EXPIRED ON 31ST OF MARCH.

Engineers and Firemen Walked Out at Coleman—May Lose Their Alberta Papers

The long-talked-of strike at the coal mines throughout this district began at 12 o'clock on Friday night last. The miners then threw down their picks and shovels and stated that they would no longer work under the conditions that they had been subjected to since August 1st 1909. The miners have ignored the Lemieux Act and have just caused the biggest strike that has ever taken place in the Crow's Nest Pass. The operators say that they will not make any further concessions to the miners.

On Friday night when the miners quit work at the International Coal Company's mines at Coleman most of the engineers and firemen, without giving any notice whatever to the company, left their boilers etc., and walked out with the coal-diggers making extremely dangerous for the pit-boys, fire-boys and several others who were still in the mines. The fans which supply the mines with air were neglected, the inside workings were in danger of being filled with noxious gases and those men who were still in the mines were in a most perilous condition. Because of their action in this instance the engineers are liable to lose their papers. Royal North West Mounted Police force has been increased considerably throughout The Pass. No violence has taken place and peace and quietness reign.

BLAIRMORE, ALBERTA

The severe storm which swept over The Pass on Sunday and Monday was quite an unexpected visitor. For a month previous we felt as though spring had dawned in real earnest, but winter apparel had to be readjusted this week, when the mercury told the story of a "17 degrees below zero," and the ground re-draped its snow cap.

Every family and especially those who reside in the country should be provided at all times with a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment. There is no telling when it may be wanted in case of any accident or emergency. It is most excellent in all cases of rheumatism, sprains and bruises. Sold by dealers everywhere.
